Defendants request that the Court take notice of a recent district court decision in the Eastern District that is relevant to this case. In Fisher v Jordan, et al, the Court found that there was probable cause for the arrest, which entitled the officers to qualified immunity under federal law and to governmental immunity under state law. The opinion explains that when evaluating the completeness of police reports and search warrant affidavits “it would place too much of a burden upon investigating police officers to require that they include all possibly mitigating items in their police reports in order to avoid potential liability.” (Ex. A.)
